

English Spring counting story

Hopefully you have created some fantastic sentences for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Today you are going to focus on Friday's Spring walk and write your last sentence. On the next slide, I have created an example and highlighted some of the things you need to think about. Can you finish the sentences in the bubbles?

Then it's time to write your own sentence.

I need to remember that Friday needs a

I need a describing word in my sentence. A describing word is also called an

On Friday, I went on a spring walk and I saw five fuzzy catkins hanging from the tree.

There is more than one catkin so I need to add an

I need an action word. An action word is also called a

Challenge yourself!

You could write a sentence for Saturday and Sunday and then you will have written a sentence for everyday of the week in your poem.

You could read out your work to your family. You could read out your poem and record yourself so you can play it back and watch yourself.

You could write out all your amazing sentences to present your work as a whole poem. You could even find some smart Spring paper to use. Or better still, design your own!

(<https://www.twinkl.co.uk/resource/t-t-753-spring-page-borders>)